

Presbyterian
World Service
& Development

World AIDS Day

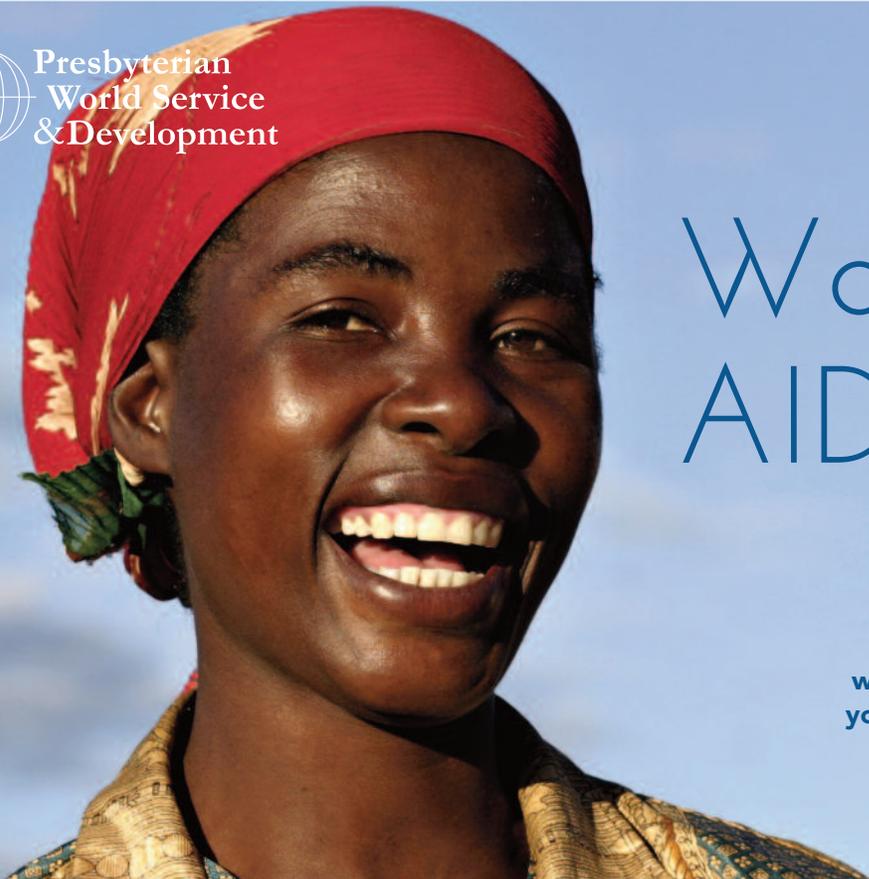

December 1, 2016

May the God of hope fill you
with all joy and peace... so that you may abound in hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.

Romans 15:13

Presbyterian
World Service
& Development

World AIDS Day

December 1, 2016

May the God of hope fill you
with all joy and peace... so that you may abound in hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.

Romans 15:13

Between 2010 and 2015, annual AIDS-related deaths decreased from 2.2 million to 2.1 million. Since 2010, new HIV infections have fallen by 6%.

But the decline in new HIV infections among adults has stalled. Efforts must be strengthened if the world is to stay on the fast-track to ending the AIDS epidemic by 2030.

The Presbyterian Church in Canada is working with partners around the world to fight stigma and discrimination, provide access to counselling and HIV testing, and teach and equip people to prevent the spread of the disease. Care is provided to people living with HIV as well as support to orphans and vulnerable children.

We are working towards a world where there are no new cases of HIV, where mothers don't have to worry about transmitting the disease to their children, and access to prevention options is available for all. We are living in hope of the time when no more people die of AIDS.

This World AIDS Day, as we reflect on the challenges and successes in the fight against AIDS, let us continue to live in hope as we pray for those whose lives are affected and support people working for a world without AIDS.

Be a Person of Hope!

You can inspire others to learn more and help fight AIDS. Talk about HIV with family and friends. Advocate for treatment for all. Generously support HIV and AIDS programs by raising funds for PWS&D.

Donate Today!

Donations can be made online, through your church, by mailing a cheque to the PWS&D office or by calling 1-800-619-7301 ext. 291.

Between 2010 and 2015, annual AIDS-related deaths decreased from 2.2 million to 2.1 million. Since 2010, new HIV infections have fallen by 6%.

But the decline in new HIV infections among adults has stalled. Efforts must be strengthened if the world is to stay on the fast-track to ending the AIDS epidemic by 2030.

The Presbyterian Church in Canada is working with partners around the world to fight stigma and discrimination, provide access to counselling and HIV testing, and teach and equip people to prevent the spread of the disease. Care is provided to people living with HIV as well as support to orphans and vulnerable children.

We are working towards a world where there are no new cases of HIV, where mothers don't have to worry about transmitting the disease to their children, and access to prevention options is available for all. We are living in hope of the time when no more people die of AIDS.

This World AIDS Day, as we reflect on the challenges and successes in the fight against AIDS, let us continue to live in hope as we pray for those whose lives are affected and support people working for a world without AIDS.

Be a Person of Hope!

You can inspire others to learn more and help fight AIDS. Talk about HIV with family and friends. Advocate for treatment for all. Generously support HIV and AIDS programs by raising funds for PWS&D.

Donate Today!

Donations can be made online, through your church, by mailing a cheque to the PWS&D office or by calling 1-800-619-7301 ext. 291.