Make an impact that will last generations

Through PWS&D, our church demonstrates God's love and faithfulness in some of the most marginalized corners of our global community. Responding through local partners to situations of poverty, hunger, injustice and disaster, we work to help families achieve stability for today and hope for the future.

Investing in climate-smart agriculture techniques, education for girls and boys, and enabling access to health care and food are just a few of the ways your generosity will help make an impact for future generations.

The faithful support of Presbyterians from across Canada continues to enable life-sustaining development projects and relief projects in countless countries.

Together, we can make an impact for future generations.
