

Healing and Reconciliation

Study the PCC's Confession to God and Indigenous People

In 1994, The Presbyterian Church in Canada confessed its role in operating Indian Residential Schools. The Confession describes how in our cultural arrogance the church demanded more of Indigenous people than the Gospel requires, and as a result, many children suffered significant trauma which continues to impact Indigenous communities. This resource includes discussion questions and prayers that help us reflect on that Confession and on the continuing need for healing and reconciliation both in the church and across Canada.

Justice Webinars

Justice remains even more important in times of upheaval! For that reason, Justice Ministries is creating a series of webinars looking at justice in times of turmoil, such as the COVID-19 pandemic. The first three webinars in the series explored topics of justice and fear, justice and self-care, and justice and vulnerability. Check out past recordings and stay tuned for upcoming webinars.

It's Time for Justice

Resources from the International Affairs Committee draw attention to four issues: the Anglophone crisis in Cameroon, climate change, issues related to migrant workers in Canada and religious persecution. These resources summarize justice, peace and human rights issues, including some steps the PCC has taken, through General Assembly, to respond to the situation, and provides prayer resources for individual or small group reflection.
